The Church of our Lady is one of the finest buildings in Nuremberg. It is situated in the market-place and was erected 1255—61 in the site of an old Jewish Synagogue. In 1816 it was acquired by the Roman Catholics. A remarkable feature of the building is the "Männleinlaufen" a quaint clock over the west portal, constructed in 1506—9, which at the hour of noon presents moving figures of the seven German electors.
